New Website Streamlines Access to Important Information for Water Well Drillers

The Office of Conservation has unveiled a streamlined website for the Water Well Program that will provide more expedient access to important regulatory information for Louisiana's licensed water well drillers. The new website, located on-line at <http://dnr.la.gov/welldrillers>, brings together relevant materials into a single "one-stop-shop" that will increase the efficiency of agency operations as well as those of water well drillers around the state.

The website includes all required forms for water well construction, installation, notification, and registration; relevant state rules and regulations; licensing requirements and documents; convenient SONRIS GIS/Data access; a news and announcements section for important updates; links to Continuing Education providers; and detailed information on the board members and meetings of the Advisory Committee for the Regulation and Control of Water Well Drillers.
